

MUMBAI

Almost Famous

(The next best thing to a movie contract)

BOLLYWOOD NOT BITING? Show them (your friends, anyway) what they're missing with a personalized hand-painted movie poster. The iconic images filled Mumbai's streets until digital photography killed them off in the 1990s, putting scores of artists out of work. Frenchwomen Sophie Legoubin-Caupeil and Sarah Loosdregt-Charlet have revived the genre by hiring the artists to paint made-to-order versions of vintage posters using the customer's photograph—allowing wannabes to be immortalized as Bollywood stars.
